

Floe

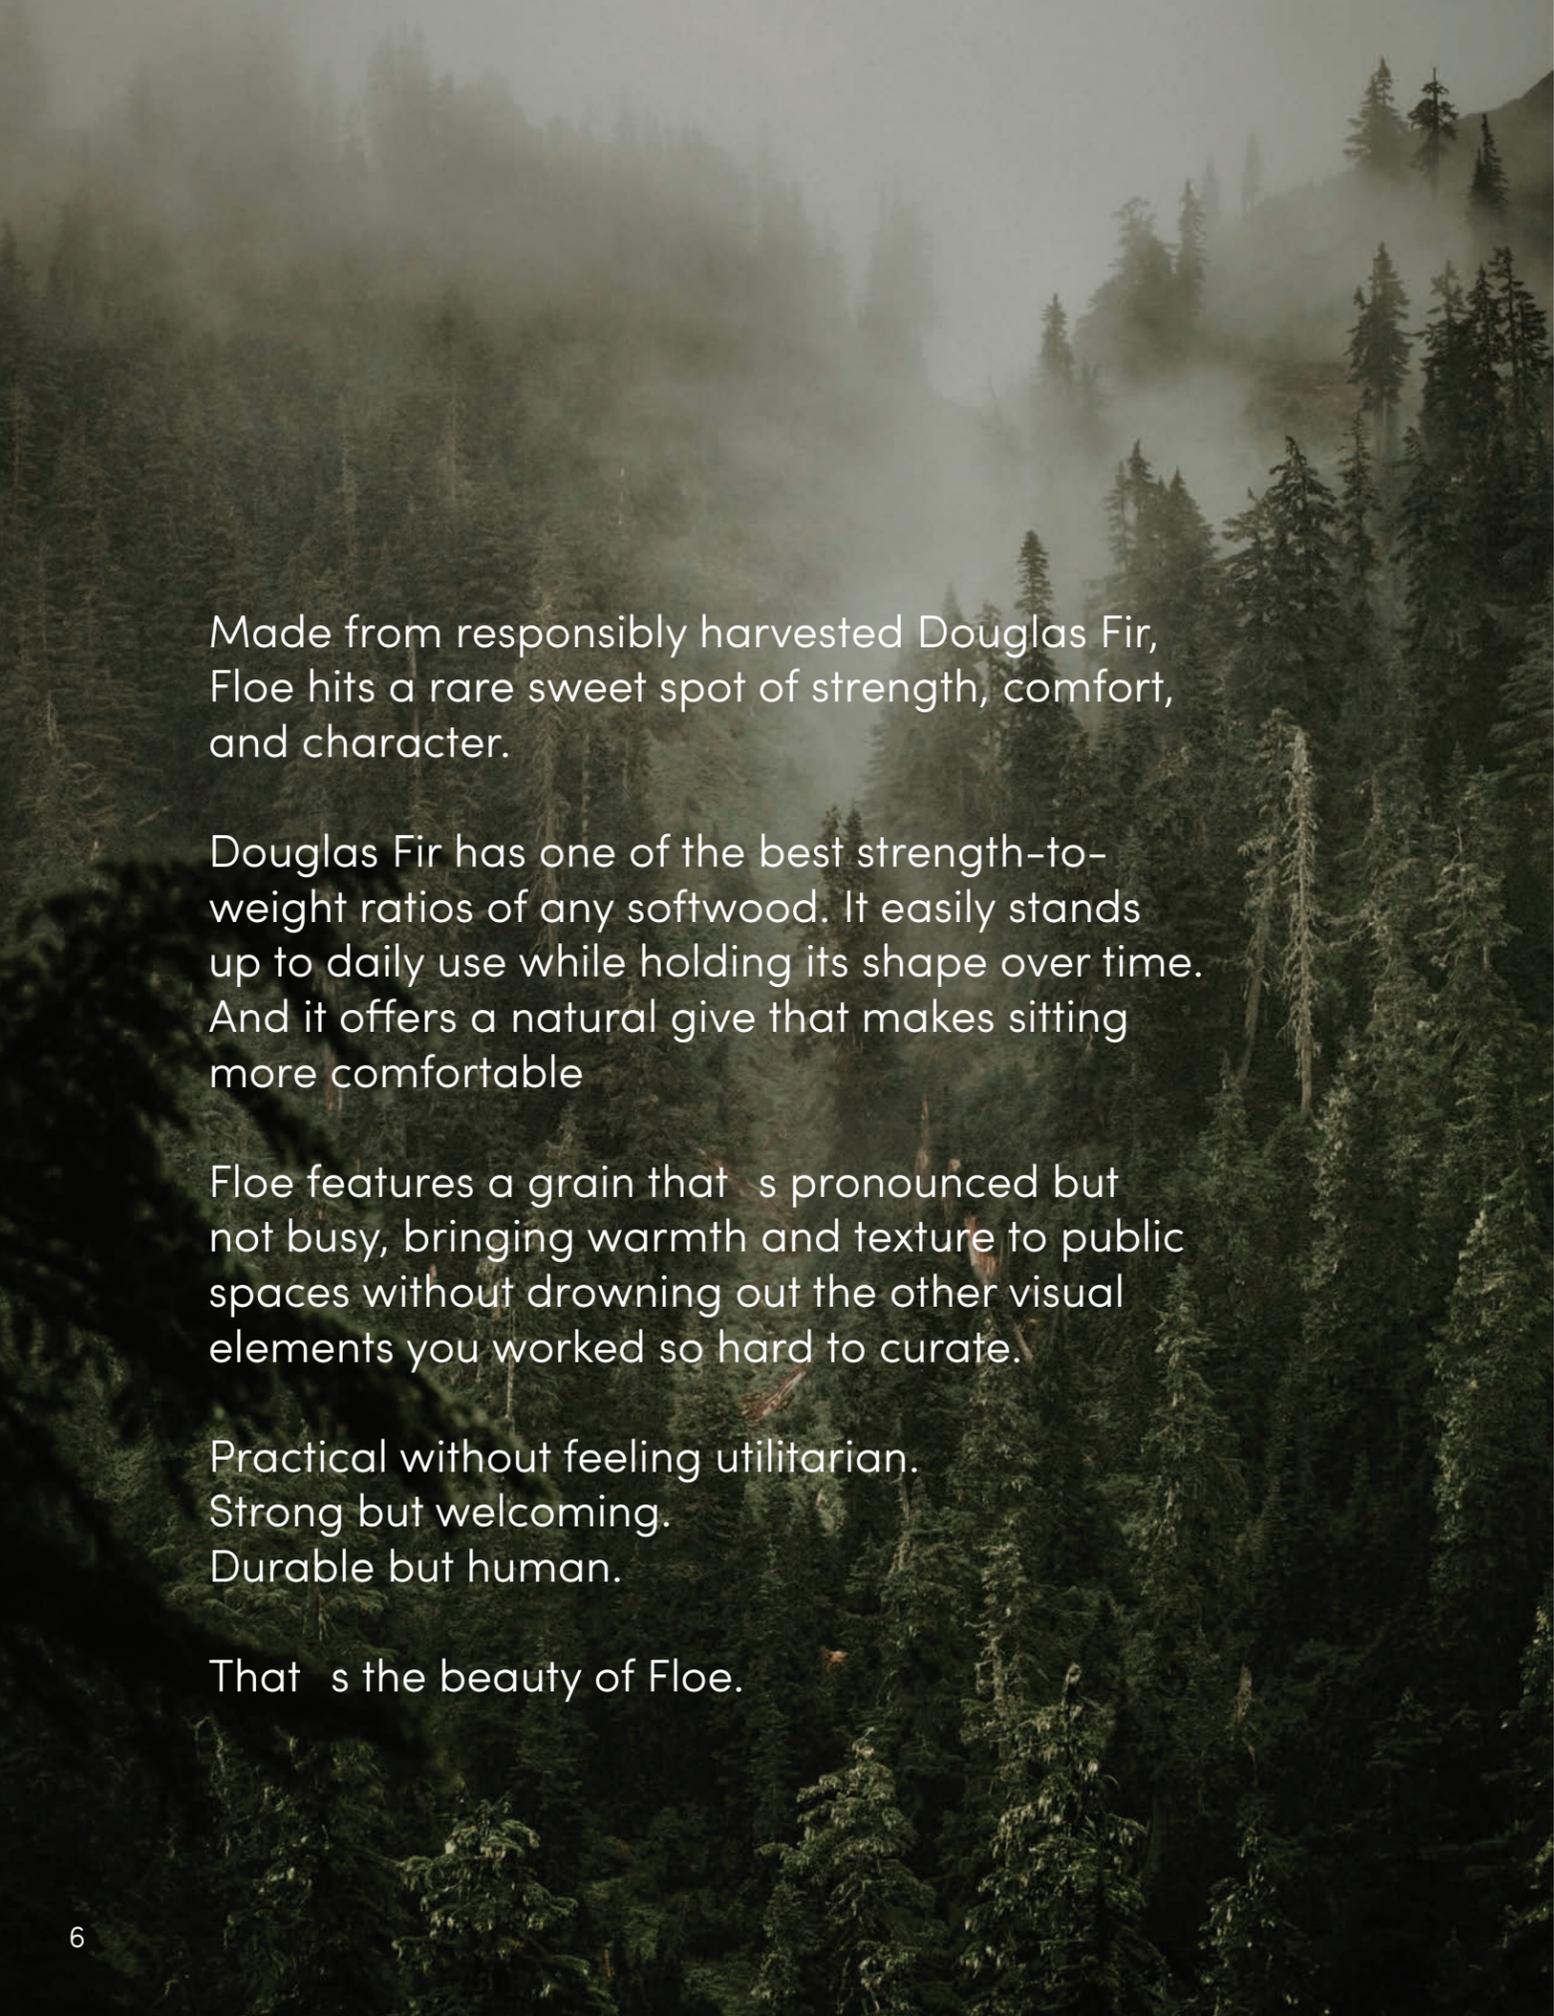

Thoughtfully balanced design

Floe feels right at home in public spaces. Large profile wood softens into rounded forms, creating contemporary bench seating that sits easy with everyone.

Naturally comfortable form

Wide planks are transformed into a continuous concave seat that's always supportive and endlessly appealing.

Made from responsibly harvested Douglas Fir, Floe hits a rare sweet spot of strength, comfort, and character.

Douglas Fir has one of the best strength-to-weight ratios of any softwood. It easily stands up to daily use while holding its shape over time. And it offers a natural give that makes sitting more comfortable

Floe features a grain that's pronounced but not busy, bringing warmth and texture to public spaces without drowning out the other visual elements you worked so hard to curate.

Practical without feeling utilitarian.
Strong but welcoming.
Durable but human.

That's the beauty of Floe.

Floe follows your lead

Choose from shapes designed to fit fluidly in your space. Mix and match backed, backless, and even extra-wide benches knowing that Floe's committed to comfort in any combination.

Intentionally durable features

An all-steel frame delivers lasting strength and Maglin superior coating helps prevent rusting.
